The Story-Teller.

CAPTURED BY TELEGRAPH.

During the winter of 1869 I was employed as night operator in the railroad office at D——, Iowa. The principal road between Chicago and Council Bluffs runs through D——, and the great irregular night trains, and the constant danger of collision resulting therefrom, rendered the position of night operator by no means an easy one. It may be well to mention here, as necessary to the following story, that besides the railroad office, there was also at D—— a business office of the Union company. This we always spoke of as the "down-town" office.

One stormy night, not far from eleven o'clock, I sat at my desk—and, for a wonder, idle. The wires had not called for some time, and I was leaning back in my chair, listening to the wind outside and reflecting on the loneliness of my situation. The eastern train had crossed the river more than an hour ago; all the depot officials had gone off home, and, so far as I knew, I was entirely alone in the vast building.

Finally, tired of thinking, I picked up the evening paper, and glanced listlessly over its columns. Among other things, I read the detailed account of a fearful tragedy that had occurred fifty miles up the river on the previous night. Three raftsmen, well known as desperate characters in that vicinity, had entered the cottage of one Matthews, a farmer living in an isolated spot—had butchered the farmer and his children, terribly maltreated his wife, and then departed as they came, having taken with them whatever plunder was handy. What interested me most was a full description of the chief of the villainous trio, Tim Lynch. Here it is:

"Five hundred dollars reward will be paid for information leading to the capture, dead or alive, of Tim Lynch, the ringleader of the Matthews tragedy.—Lynch is a remarkably large man, six feet four inches in height, very heavy, and broad across the shoulders. Eyes greenish gray with a deep scar over the right one. Hair wiry, black, and beard of same color. When last seen he was dressed in a black Kossuth hat, faded army overcoat, pants of gray jean, and heavy boots. The above reward will be paid to any one furnishing positive information of his whereabouts.

"Sheriff of ——— county."

At the very instant I finished reading the advertisement, there occurred the most remarkable coincidence that has ever come under my observation. I heard a heavy tread on the stair, and then the door opened and there entered—Tim Lynch! The moment I set my eyes upon him I recognized him as perfectly as though I had known him all my life. The army overcoat and gray pants tucked into the heavy boots, the massive frame and shoulders, the slouched hat pulled down over his right eye to conceal—I was sure—the scar; above all, a desperate, hunted look in his forbidding countenance—all were not to be mistaken. I was as certain of his identity as though he had stepped forward, pulled off his hat to show me the scar, and told me his name.

To say that I was not alarmed at this sudden and unwelcome intrusion would be untrue. I am not a brave man, and my present situation, alone in the depot with a hunted murderer, was by no means reassuring. My heart beat violently, but from mere force of habit I arose and asked him to be seated. While he turned to comply I succeeded in conquering my agitation to some extent. He drew a chair noisily forward, and sitting down, threw open his coat, displaying by so doing a heavy navy revolver stuck in his belt.—Then he freed his mouth of a quantity of tobacco juice, and spoke:

"Young feller," he said, motioning with his head toward the battery, "that thar macheen is what yer call a tellygram, I s'pose?"

"Well," I answered, with a faint smile, inteuded to be conciliatory, "that's what we send telegrams by."

"Wal, I want yer to send a message to a friend o' mine out in Cohoe. I tell yer aforehand I hain't got no collateral, but I kinder guess you'd better trust me, young feller." (Here he laid his hand significantly on his belt.) "I'll fetch it in termorrow, ef it's convenient."

I hastened to say that the charge could just as well be paid at the other end by his friend.

"Umph! Plaguey little you'll get o' Jim, I reckon. Howsumever, proceed."

"What is the message, and to whom is it to go?"

"I want yer to tell Jim Fellers, of Cohoe, that the bull quit here las' night, and ther sheep'll be close on his heels."

As he delivered this sentence he looked at me as if he expected me to be mystified. But I thought it best not to appear so, and I said carelessly:

"I suppose you're a dealer in stock, and this is your partner? Ah, sir, the telegraph helps you fellows out of many a sharp bargain."

"Ya'as," he answered slowly, evidently pleased with the way I took it. "Ya'as, that's 'um. I'm sendin' down a lot o' stock. Bought it dog cheap over in Genesee yisterday. Purty lot as ever you see."

I turned to my instrument. What was to be done? Though ours was a railroad office, we often sent business messages; and if I did as usual now I should probably get rid of my unwelcome visitor without further trouble. But in my short conversation with him I had somewhat recovered from my first alarm, and I now conceived the idea of attempting the capture of Tim Lynch.

I was only a poor, salaried operator, trying to save enough to marry in the spring. Five hundred dollars would do me a great deal of good just now—to say nothing of the eclat of the thing. But how was it to be accomplished? Here was I, alone in the depot with a man big enough to whip his weight in such little men as I was several times over. Any attempt to secure him single-handed was not to be thought of. But could I not excuse myself, and going out fasten him in? No; well I knew from the distrustful look in his face that any proposal of mine to leave the room would be peremptorily objected to by him. What then?

Why, simply this; I would telegraph to the down-town station. But alas! That very day the connection between the two offices had been cut for repairs. It was seldom used at any time, of course. But what of that? It was only a question of a few seconds more time.

All these things went through my mind with the rapidity of lightning as I went to the battery. Lynch regarded me from the corner of his uncovered eye with a suspicion that made me shake in my shoes. As I sat down he rose and came to my side.

"Look a here, young feller," he hissed in my ear, and his breath was sickening with the fumes of liquor, "perhaps ye mean fair enough—I hope ye do, for yer own sake. But I don't understan' nothin' 'bout them tellygrams, and jist want ter tell yer that yer'd better be squar'—for, by the Eternal God! ef ye go back on me I'll stretch ye on this yere floor as stiff as ever I did a man yit!" and I felt the cold muzzle of the revolver on my cheek.—Perhaps my voice trembled a little, but I was still unmoved in my resolution, as I replied:

"Never fear, sir; I'll tell him all about the stock." He muttered something to himself, and still remained standing over me.

You have heard, perhaps, how much character and expression a telegraph operator can put into his touch. Why, there were dozens of different operators communicating with our office, and I could tell at the instant, without ever making a mistake, who it was signaling. You could tell if a man was nervous from his telegraphing just as well as you could from his hand-writing. The call that I sent hurrying across the State to Council Bluffs, must have rung out upon the ears of the operator like a shriek.

"C. B. Are you there?" was what I asked, and almost instantly came back a reply in the affirmative. Then with a trembling hand I rattled off my message: "For the love of God, telegraph to our down-town office at once. Tell them that Lynch is within two feet of me, and they must send help."

A short pause, as though my message occasioned some surprise, and then came the response: "All right!" which assured me I need not repeat.

"Wal," growled the deep voice of Lynch, "are you going to send my message?"

"I have sent it, sir."

"What? Does all this tickin' mean what I told you?"

"Yes, and if you'll wait fifteen or twenty minutes, you'll get an answer."

"Wal, I dunno as I want an answer. Jim, he'll understand it all right."

"But I'll tell you soon whether he is there or not. Sit down,"

So Lynch reluctantly took his seat, looking around at the doors and windows once in a while in an uneasy way. I was determined to take him now at any cost; and I verily believe I should have planted myself in his path had he insisted upon going now.

"Tick, tick, tick!" the battery called out, and I listened to the message:—"Keep cool. Gould has gone for the police." Strange it was, wasn't it, that I should sit there and talk through 250 miles of space with a man not half a mile from me?

"What's that signerfy?" inquired my companion as the tickings ceased; and I replied that the clerk at Cohoe had just written off the message and sent it out. He seemed satisfied, and settled back in his chair, where he sat in sullen silence, his jaws going up and down as he chewed his weed.

Oh, how slowly the minutes crept along! The suspense was terrible. I sat and watched the minute hand of the clock, and five minutes seemed as many hours.—My companion seemed nervous, too. He moved uneasily in his chair.

"Ain't it about time ye heerd from Jim?" he asked, at length.

"We shall get word from him in a few moments now," I answered, and fell to watching the clock again. Five minutes more passed. Lynch got up and began pacing to and fro across the room. At length he paused and said:

"I don't believe I'll wait any more; I've got to see a man down at the Pennsylvania-house, and he'll be abed ef I don't get thar purty soon."

"Hold on a moment, and I'll see what they're up to," I cried hastily, and I touched my key again. "Make haste," was my message. "I shall lose him if you do not. Not a moment to spare."—Straightway came the reply, short but encouraging: "A squad of police started for the depot five minutes ago." Thank Heaven! they ought to be here now. I looked at Lynch and then thought of the five hundred dollars.

"Wal, what's the word?" he growled.

"Your friend is coming," I answered, for want of a better reply.

"Comin'! Comin'! Whar?"

"Coming to the office at Cohoe. He probably has an answer for you."

"An answer for me? Jim Fellers? What should he answer for—" Lynch stood in stupid thought for a moment, and then he looked at me with a dangerous light in his eye.

"Look a' here, young feller!" he cried, "it's my private opinion you're lyin' to me, and ef ye are—" here he uttered a horrible oath—"I'll cut yer skulking heart out! I don't know anything 'bout that ther macheen, but I swar Jim Fellers hain't nothin' to answer. More likely he'd git up and scatter when he heerd it."

He stood glaring at me as he uttered these words his hand on his revolver. I cannot account for it. As I before remarked, I am a timid man by nature, but this action only made me bolder. Everything depended upon keeping him a few seconds longer. It must be done at any cost. I tried a new plan.

"What do you mean, sir?" I shouted, rising, "by coming into this office and talking in this style? Do you think I'll endure it? Leave this room at once, sir, or I'll—" and I advanced threateningly toward him. My unexpected attitude seemed to amuse him more than anything else, but it silenced his suspicions. He put his hands in his pockets and delivered a loud laugh in my face.

"Wal, wal, my bantam, ye needn't git so cantankerous. Who'd thought such a little breeches as you had such spunk? Haw! haw! haw! Why, I could chaw you up 'thout making two bites o' ye."

"Well, sir," I said, still apparently unmollified, "either sit down and hold your tongue, or else leave the office." And he good-naturedly complied.

Once more we were sitting listening to the ticking of the clock as the minutes dragged their slow length along. Would help never come? Three minutes more. Great heavens! The suspense was becoming intolerable. I must go to the stairs and listen if I die for it. I arose and took a step toward the door, but a voice stopped me.

"Hold!" shouted Lynch, standing upright, all his suspicions aroused once more, "yer can't go out of that door afore me.—Come back here!"

"Sir!"

"Come back here, or by the eternal—," and the pistol muzzle looked me in the face. He stood now half turned from the door, and I was facing it. Slowly, and without a particle of noise, I saw the knob turn, and a face under a blue cap peep in. Thank God! Help had come! I felt a joy uncontrollable come over me. I must keep the murderer's attention an instant longer, till some one could spring upon him from behind. I walked straight up to him, but his quick ear had caught a movement behind. As he turned with an oath, I sprang upon him, and bore down his arm just as the revolver went off, the ball burying itself harmless in the floor.—Before he could free himself from my grasp half a dozen officers were upon him, and he was quickly secured.

The next morning the papers were filled with glowing accounts of the capture of the murderer, and praise of my conduct.—The principal business men of the town made up a purse of $500 and presented it to me; and this, with the reward that was paid me the following week, enabled me to get married at Christmas. But I shudder at the remembrance of that half hour I spent alone with Tim Lynch; and I don't think $1,000 would tempt me to go through it again.

She is simply the widow of E. A. Pollard, the historian. Some one has blundered sadly in attributing to her the history of another lady of the same name.

Paragraphs about the ill-health of President Grant are becoming frequent. Among the reports one is that Dr. Brown-Sequard, after a social call on the President, declared that unless he changed his course of living he would not live a year; and another is that the physical and mental condition of the President is Vice President Wilson's reason for giving up his European trip. Dr. Brown-Sequard now denies that he ever made such a remark, and the Vice President explains that his plans were not changed to meet any emergency of the kind reported.

Her request was complied with, and after gazing long and sadly at the thing of flowers and ribbons, she remarked in a mournful whisper, "I shall never see it again," and soon after breathed her last.

A woman in an Ohio penitentiary recently received a letter from her husband, which the warden, who has held the office for many years, says is the first instance on record of a female prisoner receiving a letter from her husband, although the male prisoners continually receive letters from their female friends and relatives.

The Ohio State Journal tells of a village clergyman who, visiting a parishioner suffering from a lingering disease, expressed to his wife a hope that she sometimes spoke to him of the future. "I do, indeed sir," was the reply, "Often and often I wakes him in the night and says: 'John, John, you little think of the torments as is prepared for you.'"

In Boston the other day a vain young fellow dressed in a new spring suit called at the house of a lady acquaintance and asked her how she thought he looked. "You remind me of early green peas," was the answer. He was obliged to depart without a solution of this conundrum, but understood it afterwards when he heard a marketman say that early peas looked nice but they were very insipid.

"Mother wants to know if you won't please to lend her your preserving kettle, 'cause as how she wants to preserve!" "We would with pleasure, boy, but the fact is, the last time we lent it to your mother she preserved it so effectually that we have never seen it since." "Well, you needn't be so sassy about your old kettle; mother wouldn't have troubled you agin, only we seed you have a new one."

Sullivan county claims a very remarkable woman, and she belongs to a very remarkable and, we may add, a very dangerous family—to marry into. She gave birth to five children in one year—triplets in January and twins in December. Her mother had previously given birth to triplets. Her sister is the mother of three pairs of twins, and each of her two daughters have given birth to triplets. The times are really too hard for such foolishness.—Columbia Herald.

Bailey says a man is hardier than a woman, except in his hands. When she sees him take his coat-tail to hold a stove lifter, she pushes him away in disgust, and takes the hot object in her bare hand without wincing. If he should do that he would drop it at once, and couldn't help it. When he has a dish to lift from the stove, he very properly starts off to hunt up a cloth, and while he is gone she removes it with her naked hand, and is there ready to say things that will make him feel small and worthless, when he gets back.

A Frenchman having heard the phrase "I've got other fish to fry," very readily learned its application. One evening, after escorting a young lady home, and being invited to walk in, he thought of the above expression, and excused himself by saying: "I tank you, mum; I must go cook some fish."

A young lady was overheard telling a friend the other evening that she was "dreadfully put out" because her pa had rented a pew in the third row from the pulpit, and she couldn't see the fashions worth a cent without twisting her neck off almost. REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

Call of the State Committee.

The Republicans of the State of Pennsylvania are hereby requested to assemble by their, delegates in State Convention at noon on, Wednesday, the 26th day of May, 1875, in the Fulton Opera House, at the city of Lancaster, for the purpose of nominating candidates for Governor and State Treasurer. Each Representative and Senatorial District will be entitled to the same representation as it has under the present apportionment for Senators and Representatives in the Legislature.

RUSSELL ERRETT, Chairman.
A. WILSON NORRIS, Secretary.

☞ His Excellency, Governor John F. Hartranft, will please accept our thanks for an early copy of the General Laws passed at the session of 1875.

☞ Treasurer Mackey puts himself upon his dignity, and refuses to be investigated. Does this not imply that there is something rotten? The party cannot endorse this kind of conduct.

☞ Dad Lewis has got enough of the Guss party and pulled out. Dad is too shrewd a politician to tie up to a thing like that. Henry Wilson takes Dad's place as Chairman of the County Committee. Henry will, no doubt, suit Guss.

☞ The Johnstown Tribune says positively that Hon. Butler B. Strang is a candidate for State Treasurer. The Philadelphia Times corrects itself and admits this to be the case, while the Sunday City Item declares, just as positively, that he is not. When such authorities disagree who shall decide?

☞ Judge Clarkson got off handsomely in the last Globe. Only a column and a quarter! Now, wasn't that nice? Everybody expected six columns, and a majority of it in small type, but the editor's "gray goose quill" must have given out and his readers were saved the usual infliction.

☞ We are very much gratified at the prospects of the Centennial. It looks now as if the American Centennial year would be the greatest affair of the kind in the history of the world by a thousand fold.—The whole civilized and Pagan world is likely to join with us. Is it not a grand thought? And, then, Philadelphia is to contain it all! Ah, she ought to become the grandest as well as the proudest city on the globe. All hail Philadelphia!

☞ We have published several communications, and publish others to-day, favoring the election of Mr. Baker to the Superintendency. We publish these communications at special rates and we want it distinctly understood that we do not wish to be held responsible for them nor do we wish any one to infer our sentiments upon the subjects from these articles.—When we have any opinions to express we will do so in our own way and not through the medium of others.

☞ Col. John C. Everhart, of Blair county, is being brought forward as a Democratic candidate for State Treasurer. There is no purer and fairer Democrat in the State than Col. Everhart. Should he be nominated, and the Democrats prove successful, (of which there is very little prospect, however,) he would administer the affairs of that important office in a manner, we believe, that would be satisfactory to all parties concerned. But Col. Everhart is not the style of man for the men who manipulate Democratic nominations.

☞ The campaign, this fall, in this county, in any contingency promises to be a very exciting one. In addition to the Governor and Treasurer on the State ticket, which will bring out a large vote there will be most of the important offices to be filled: Associate Judge, District Attorney, County Treasurer, Prothonotary, Register and Recorder, three County Commissioners, a Director of the poor, and three County Auditors. Those who wish to be elected had better be making their peace with the printers.

With Hartranft at the head of the ticket we will be able to knock down any pin the Democracy can put up, and will give them a margin of 20,000. But then in justice to the General and the party, we want no dead weights on the ticket. We want men who can "run on their own bottom," men who command respect and influence by their personal merits; men whom we know we can rely upon. With such candidates there can be no doubt of the political result in the old Keystone next fall. —Bedford Inquirer.

That is our "posish" exactly. We want a good running mate along side. One that will help to pull the loads. Anderson or Strang will fill the bill.

☞ The Legislative Committee appointed to investigate the affairs of the Philadelphia and Reading Iron and Coal Company, in connection with those of the Reading Railroad, says the Pittsburgh Telegraph, met in Philadelphia on Tuesday, and organized for business with Senator Maclay as Chairman. It is generally known that the stockholders of the Reading Railroad Company are the owners of the franchises of the Iron and Coal company, and by virtue of this ownership, it is alleged, they get around constitutional and railway inhibitions to oppress the public. The attorney for the association of retail coal dealers, which is pressing the investigation, desired the Committee to understand that the complaint of the retail dealers was not based upon the fact that the Reading Company was selling coal at retail, and underselling the retail coal dealers, but on the fact that the Company had entered into a combination to regulate the price and transportation of coal in their own favor. The general impression seems to be that the "vested rights" of the monopoly will secure them a favorable verdict at the hands of the committee, and that the retailers and consumers of coal have no means of redress, the Legislature having given away their rights to the Iron and Coal Company.

SAPPY.

The Globe's "Efforts to Unite the Party" would really melt the heart of a stone or bring tears to the eyes of a potato. Years and years ago, when the old Hardshell Baptists were swinging around, it would have been worth a whole ten-acre lot of lava boulders to have heard one of them read an article like "Efforts to Unite the Party." How he would have blubbered and snorted over it; grew pathetic and then bombastic; snuffled and whined, until his final "ahs" would have been heard half a mile, and yet he would not have been half the hypocrite that the author of that article is. After doing everything in his power to break up the Republican party, for the last two years, he now comes whining back,

"The mildest mannered man that ever
Cut a throat or scuttled a ship."

Oh, no, no, Mr. Picksniff, the Republicans don't mean to surrender their organization to those who have labored assiduously for years to ruin it. They are willing to leave you take your position in the ranks, and participate in all the usages of the party, but The Globe nor its editor cannot be raised, at one spring, to the front, by a jug full. We can't surrender the efforts of half-a-dozen years for an uncertainty. So dry up your crocodile tears.—You left the party of your own accord, and affiliated with the Democrats. You have no right to expect us to reward you for your perfidy. You ought to have no objection to this if you believe your own statements. If a large majority are willing to surrender to you, you will be very foolish not to take the station you left a couple of years ago, and rise on the popular tide. You certainly ought to expect a dead sure thing ahead. Fall in, and close up the ranks. Your followers want peace. We all want peace.

☞ Attorney General Williams has resigned. Hon. John Scott, Hon B. F. Butler, Hon. Rockwood Hoar and Hon. Matt. Carpenter are named in connection with the vacancy.

☞ Every School Director in the county should come to the election next Tuesday and vote for Baker. C.

The Vineland Shooting.

CONDITION OF CHAS. K. LANDIS AND HIS PRISON TREATMENT.

A letter from Vineland says:

The reports that Carruth is slowly improving leads Mr. Landis to think that the wounded man will recover, and he expresses a hope that he may. There is no immediate prospect of any effort being made by the prisoner's counsel to secure a release on bail under the English common law, which prevails in this state. If Carruth should die within a year and a day after the shooting, Landis would be indicted and tried for murder. Should he recover or seem likely to recover beyond reasonable doubt, a motion would be made by Landis's lawyers for the production of the prisoner before the Supreme Court and his release on bail for trial on charge of assault with intent to kill, for which the Grand Jury would then indict him in the meantime. Landis will not be indicted, and the Grand Jury will take no action until either one of the contingencies arises which I have stated. The general excitement hereabouts has largely subsided, the public opinion apparently preponderates in Landis's favor. The counsel for Mr. Landis are Benjamin H. Brewster, of Philadelphia; Messrs. Potter and Nixon, of Bridgeton, and Messrs. House and Turner, of Vineland. As will be seen from the above statement, the time of the trial is extremely indefinite.

CONDITION OF MR. CARRUTH.

Mr. Carruth's condition has grown worse to-day. He had been gradually improving recently, and strong hopes were beginning to be entertained, but to-night he is in a very precarious state. He has not made any ante mortem statement, however, and no arrangements for that purpose have been considered. Mr. Carruth does not care to talk of the shooting, and his physician, Dr. Tulley, will not allow any one to question him about it. He has, however, contradicted the statement of Landis as to any words passing between them before the shooting. He has no recollection of anything being said. He also denies that he was armed at the time, and positively asserts that he never has, at any time, carried weapons since he lived here. He expresses no animosity toward Landis, and is still hopeful of his own recovery.

I clip from the files of the Independent the following specimen of dignified journalism, as a specimen of one of the many paragraphs which led to the shooting: "We are happy to announce to our neighbors that Mr. Landis's pig-pen is not likely to smell to heaven the coming season. The swine have emigrated." This was published just after Mr. Landis sailed for Europe, and as there has been no reforms in the reformer's pig-pens, it was given a figurative rather than a literal interpretation by the general readers of Mr. Carruth's journal.

Mr. Beecher and the Donkey.

The donkey is a much-abused brute, in fact, one of the most intelligent of beasts, he is yet used as a symbol of folly and stupidity in man. Moreover, the donkey has a fine sense of humor, which the human creature likened unto him usually has not. The contempt of the donkey for man and his arguments is really sublime. He has his own views, and is not open to conviction in opposition to them. It is true he may yield to a prolonged thumping of a big stick, but it is only under protest; and a donkey, like a man, convinced against his will, is of the same opinion still. You can see it in his eye and his ear. He is not, it is true, of the stuff that martyrs are made of, but he will stand out until he is very sore, and except your views of the true path and the proper gait only when he has found that by doing otherwise he is sure to cause himself more discomfort than a donkey ought to endure even in behalf of his opinions. Then he has a chance of making a contemptuous retort by kicking up his heels and tossing you over his head. Take him altogether, the donkey is a very wise brute, and funny, too. He is not flippant like the monkey nor rollicking as the dog, but his sense of fun is deep, and he has a keen appreciation of satire. Like all really good jokers, he increases the effect of his fun by a solemn demeanor. We fear, however, that there is a touch of cynicism about the donkey; but it cannot be denied that almost everybody who is at all in earnest and has had much experience of men, gets a coating of that. This little essay on the donkey is suggested of course by Mr. Beecher's remark to Brother Shearman, as to his having been not very bad, but very much of an ass in this adultery matter. He is reported to have further remarked to some one who gently rebuked him for consulting with his lawers on Sunday, that it was said in the Bible that it was lawful for a man to get his ass out of the pit on the Sabbath. We do not beleive, however, that any donkey could have been so stupid as Mr. Beecher wishes us to beleive him. If people had tried such a little game on him as Beecher swears that Tilton, Moulton, and Mrs. Moulton played, a trick so cheap and, and he an old and wary donkey, he would have cocked his eye, given his ears a knowing shake, kicked up and sent the whole load sprawling. We contend that Mr. Beecher did the donkey gross injustice, and, to his own credit as a creature outside of an idiot asylum, greatly exaggerated his own capacity for stupidity. In fact, we think that Mr. Beecher by his remark slandered the donkey, and gave a very silly explanation of his own extraordinary conduct. The ass theory never will save the Plymouth pastor, he may be sure.

Yet he did bewildering things—on the theory of his innocence, we mean. He never denied the charge of what he calls improper solicitations; never seemed to get angry about it; wrote to and recieved letters from Mrs. Tilton after he was in such a dreadful state of mind about drawing off her affections from her husband, and said nothing to her on the subject; walked with her in the public streets; told her it was permitted to her to come to his house, and that his wife was away; and did very many other things just as inexplicable.

Taking asininity in the ordinarily recieved sense, it will strike some people that the ass may be, not Mr. Beecher, but the man who swallows such a tale. Some people find it harder to do that than it would be to eat thistles as the actual donkey does.—New York Times, April. 23

The Centennial of the First Shot.

On the night of the eighteenth of April, 1775, just one hundred years ago, from the old belfry arch of North Church tower, flashed a gleam of the signal light which told to Paul Revere that the British troops had marched forth from Boston, whereupon he immediately started out to alarm the people and encourage them to arms. The history of that day is thus narrated:

Ten regiments of the flower of the British army had been sent to Boston early in 1775 to overawe the American Colonists, but every day there floated to the ears of the commander, that the sturdy yeoman gathered millitary stores and provisions as if preparing for the stern work of war. Concord was one of the store houses of the provincials. It was determined to destroy these supplies and arms and at the same time teach a lesson that would not be forgotten. Very quietly the preparations to march were all made, but the designs became known and long before the British reached their destination, the alarm bells had called the people to arms. The invading force consisted of eight hundred or one thousand men under command of Lieut. Col. Smith and Major John Pitcairn. At day break they reached the village of Lexington, where they found fifty or sixty armed men, and as many unarmed ones. The Americans made no show of resistance, but, exasperated at seeing them armed, Pitcairn ordered his men to fire, when eight American were killed and ten wounded. The whole affair was a dastardly, cold blooded massacre. Concord was at last reached and the troops were dispersed on their various errands of destruction. But from every direction the gallant yeomen gathering and they gazed down upon the British troops until they could stand it no longer. In files of two abreast, the fifers playing the White Cockade, the minute men, under the command of Major Butt, marched towards the bridge which led into Concord. When near the bridge, the British troops fired a volley and two Americans fell dead and one wounded. "Fire," shouted the American commander and there rang forth the volley whose sound Emerson poetically says "was heard round the world." As its echoes rolled through the colonies the sturdy freemen remembered the prothetic words of Lord Chatham "that the first shot fired separates the two countries," and prepared themselves for the opening war. One hundred years have passed away:

"The foe long since in silence slept,
Alike the conqueror silent sleeps;
And time, the minded bridge has swept
Down the dark stream which seaward creeps."

The Bishop of Manchester, England, preaching at Urmston recently, remarked that he desired above all to see the Church of England recover her glorious title of being the poor man's church. He deplored the want of liberality which rendered it necessary in some cases to charge pew rents, and said it would not be possible to maintain the Church as a national institution unless it rested distinctly upon a popular basis.

A $4.00 Book for $1.50.

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in plain English, or Medicine Simplified: By R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Counselor-in-Chief of the Board of Physicians and Surgeons, at the World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y. The above Work—a book of about nine hundred large pages, profusely illustrated with Wood Engravings and Colored plates, and well and strongly bound—will be sent, post paid, to any address, for One Dollar and Fifty Cents—making it the cheapest book ever offered to the American People. Other books treating of domestic medicines, of like size and style of binding, and not nearly as well illustrated, with no colored plates, and some of them containing no prescriptions and making known no means of self-cure for the diseases which they discuss, sell from three dollars and a half to five dollars. Were Dr. Pierce's Work not published by the author, printed and bound with his own machinery, and were it sold through agents, as other like works are, the price of it would have to be not less than four dollars. For when the publisher pays the author a fair price for his production, then adds a profit to his investment large enough to satisfy himself and compensate him, not only for his labor, but also for the risk of pecuniary loss which he assumes in taking the chances of the enterprise proving a success, and when the State, County and canvassing agent has each received his profit, they have added to the expense of a book, that originally cost about $1.25, so much that the people have to pay not less than $4.00 for it. The People's Medical Adviser, on the contrary, is placed within the pecuniary reach of all classes by the author, who adopts the plan of the Grangers, dispensing with middle men and giving the benefit of their profits to the people, offering his book at a price little above actual cost of publication. That those desiring the book may run no risk of losing their money in sending it through the mails, the author advertises that money addressed to him at Buffalo, N. Y., and inclosed in registered letters may be at his risk of loss. The author's large correspondence with the people upon medical matters, which we are credibly informed, frequently exceeds three hundred letters a day, and requires several trained and skillful medical assistants and short-hand reporters to enable him to entertain and answer them, as well as his large daily dealings with disease at the World's Dispensary, appeared to have peculiarly fitted him for writing the Work, by rendering him familiar with the every day medical needs of the people. He endeavors in this Work to answer all the numerous questions relating to health and disease that have been addressed to him by the people from all parts of the land, and hence it contains important information for the young and old, male and female, single and married, nowhere else to be found. All the most prevalent diseases of both sexes are also plainly and fully considered and means of self-cure made known.—Unlike other works on Domestic Medicine, it includes the subjects of Biology, Cerebral Physiology, Hygiene, Temperaments, Marriage, Reproduction, etc., all of which are treated in an original and interesting manner. It is a compendium of Anatomical, Physiological and Medical Science, and embodies the latest discoveries in each department, Dyspepsia! Dyspepsia! Dyspepsia!

Dyspepsia is the most perplexing of all human ailments. Its symptoms are almost infinite in their variety, and the forlorn and despondent victims of the disease often fancy themselves the prey, in turn, of every known malady. This is due, in part to the close sympathy which exists between the stomach and the brain, and in part also to the fact that any disturbance of the digestive function necessarily disorders the liver, the bowels and the nervous system, and effects, to some extent, the quality of the blood.

E. F. Kunkel's Bitter Wine of Iron is a sure cure. This is not a new preparation, to be tried and found wanting; it has been prescribed daily for many years in the practice of eminent physicians, with an unparalled success; it is not expected or intended to cure all the diseases to which the human family is subject, but is warranted to cure Dyspepsia in its most obstinate form. Kunkel's Bitter Wine of Iron never fails to cure. Symptoms of Dyspepsia are loss of appetite, wind and rising of the food, dryness of the mouth, heartburn, distension of the stomach and bowels, constipation, headache, dizziness, sleeplessness and low spirits. Try the great remedy and be convinced of its merits. Get the genuine. Take only Kunkel's, which is put up only in $1 bottles. Depot, 259 North Ninth St., Philadelphia, Pa. It never fails. Laws Relating to Newspaper Subscriptions and Arrearages.

The following is the law relating to newspapers and subscribers.

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered wishing to continue their subscription.
2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals, the publishers may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.
3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the office to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they have settled their bills, and ordered them discontinued.
4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publishers, and the papers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.
5. The Courts have decided that "refusing to take periodicals from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.
6. Any person who receives a newspaper and makes use of it, whether he has ordered it or not, is held in law to be a subscriber.
7. If subscribers pay in advance, they are bound to give notice to the publisher, at the end of their time, if they do not wish to continue taking it; otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it on, and the subscriber will be responsible until an express notice, with payment of all arrears, is sent to the publisher.

Rev. M. P. Doyle has purchased a comfortable residence in West Huntingdon.

The editor is off to Bedford on a pressing invitation of some of his old friends.

M. M. Logan, esq., of the Oneida dairy, has rigged up a convenient milk wagon.

Rumor has it that the Altoona Tribune will soon be revived as an evening paper.

Col. Milliken, of Blair county, is raising a regiment for the Centennial exhibition.

Graf. Miller has put a handsome and showy sign in front of his grocery, on Fifth street.

A couple of loads of dry yellow pine wood will be taken at this office, on subscription.

In the Altoona District of the M. E. Church, there were 12,000 conversions during the past year.

It is said brick can be bought at $6 per thousand. If this is so, now is the time to build.

The weather, last week, would have done no discredit to mid winter. It was as cold as Greenland.

Samuel Dickson, esq., has opened out in the old Farmers' Hotel, and is doing his share of business.

Will. DeArmitt is fixing up his residence, on the corner of Fifth and Church streets, very handsomely.

The body of Howard, the colored man who was drowned the latter part of March, is still in the water.

Philip Brumbaugh is building a neat residence on the corner of Fourteenth and Allegheny streets.

We do hope some steps will be taken to macadamize Eighth street, between Washington and Mifflin.

Abraham L. Mumper has been appointed postmaster at Barree Forge, this county, vice S. M. Green, resigned.

Attention is called to the rules laid down by Judge Dean in relation to the granting of licenses in this county.

The annual session of the Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F. will be held in Williamsport on Tuesday, the 18th of May.

We leaan that Miss Ellie Scott, of this place, won the first prize at a spelling bee, in Alexandria, on Saturday night last.

Geo. A. Port, esq., will break ground, early next month, for his new building on the corner of Fifth and Washington streets.

We had the pleasure of grasping the hand of our genial and clever friend, Archy Hutchinson, of Warriorsmark, one day last week.

A special police force from Philadelphia has been sent to the Clearfield county coal regions, and the mines are working with a reduced force.

The equines of Warriorsmark township are suffering from a violent distemper, many valuable animals having died within the past week or two.

Alexander A. Anderson, esq., was complimented with a large social party, at the residence of his mother, on the 23d inst., on the occasion of his reaching his majority. It was a brilliant affair.

A correspondent complains seriously of irregularities in the post office at Hubblesville. We hope that the parties in charge of that office will take heed.

The Glass Works project ought to be revived. Something new is wanted for some of the old "blowers" to talk about. The old project is "blowed out."

A valuable Alderny cow died for Dr. R. Allison Miller, a few days ago. The Doctor had been repeatedly offered $100 for her. She was a great pet of the family.

Col. I. H. Rawlins, a Republican member of the Legislature from Blair county, is dangerously ill with consumption, and little hopes are entertained of his recovery.

Occident, the celebrated California trotting horse, valued at $50,000, passed eastward over the Pennsylvania railroad, one day last week, under charge of his driver, Budd Doble.

Wm. Sleep, of Hopewell, Bedford county, has been appointed Superintendent of the East Broad Top coal mines, and will have his headquarters at Robertsdale, this county.

The many friends of J. Sylvanus Blair, esq., will be pleased to learn that on motion of Attorney General Williams he was admitted to practice in the United States Supreme Court.

Mr. David Long, the green-house and market garden man, is improving the appearance of the eastern end of Church street by putting a neat pale fence around his lots in that locality.

If the coke project goes forward, at Saxton, a furnace or two ought to be located at this point beyond doubt. Iron can be manufactured here twenty per cent. cheaper than elsewhere.

The crowd of half-grown boys and young men who range themselves in front of the post-office, every evening, compelling ladies to force their way through their ranks, should receive the immediate attention of the police.

The card in the News, accepting the challenge of the gentlemen, was in very bad taste. We are pleased to know that the lady whose name is attached to it, as well as all other ladies, disclaim having anything to do with it.

It is the duty of all mayors and burgesses of cities and boroughs to require the constabulary or police force to see that the fish and game laws are enforced, and if they know of any violations they are bound to report them.

The "Bee," at the Opera House, on Saturday night, resulted, in a victory for the masculines, but the fair sex have every reason to be proud for the learned and able manner in which they acquitted themselves in the war of words.

Dolph. Laporte, of Franklin township, this county, has received the appointment of postal clerk on the Philadelphia Express west from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh, and Fast Line east over the same route, vice H. L. Africa, resigned.

When our country friends come to town to make their spring purchases, they will save money by consulting the advertising columns of the JOURNAL before doing so. We can vouch for the honorable dealing of those merchants whose advertisements appear in our paper.

An unsuccessful attempt was made, one day last week, by the prisoners confined in Fort Henderson, to gain their liberty. They had manufactured lead keys for the different doors, but in trying the one for the door to their prison room, it broke off in the lock and led to their detection.

Some time ago we made note of the arrest of Daniel Mellot and wife, in Fulton county, who were charged with setting fire to their home, and the burning to death of three of their children. They were acquitted of the charge, but at once left McConnellsburg, fearing rough usage at the hands of those who were in attendance at Court.

Blair and Cambria counties present a female candidate for county superintendent of schools. Cannot Huntingdon turn out one from amongst her accomplished school marms? We should like to see some one of our young ladies placed in a position where she could have the opportunity of "popping the question" as often as she saw proper.

During the session of the M. E. Conference at Huntingdon, while the members were being distributed among the friends, and inquiries were being made as to whether ministers or laymen would be preferred, a pious old lady from the country, remarked that she would prefer to entertain preachers, as it was entirely too far for "lame men" to hobble out into the country.—Osceola Reveille.

McPike, of the Cambria Freeman, is again a candidate for the office of Treasurer, and we know of no Democrat, the wide world over, more deserving of the place than the said McPike, and as a Democrat will fill the position, the "frosty sons" cannot do better than nominate this ink-slinger. He labors hard for his party, and it is meet that the laborer should receive his reward.

A week or so ago, U. B. Lewis, esq., of this place, brought to our office a hen egg, laid by a Bramah or Leghorn hen, weighing 5½ ounces and measuring 7½ inches in circumference in one way and 9 inches the other. It was a monster egg. That hen had perpetrated a feat worth cackling about. She no doubt considered it "a good egg," and we perfectly agree. The wretch who could accuse her of laying a "bad egg" ought to be made crow like a Harrisburg rooster all the remainder of his days.

A NEW ENTERPRISE.—COKE WORKS TO BE ESTABLISHED AT SAXTON.—The successful experiment made in manufacturing coke from washed Broad Top coal have been given to the public through the columns of this paper, and articles on the subject written by John Fulton, esq., Resident Engineer of the Broad Top Company, have from time to time been copied in the Gazette. That a superior coke can, and, in fact, is now being manufactured by the Kemble Company, at Riddlesburg, for the use of their furnaces at that place, has been demonstrated to the entire satisfaction of all parties concerned. As a Bedford county enterprise we noted the fact with a great deal of pleasure, but it affords us still more pleasure to announce to our readers that the manufacture of coke for shipment to other points is about to be extensively carried on at Saxton. A company has recently been formed for that purpose, with a capital of fifty thousand dollars, and the project is to be carried forward to an early completion. The ground selected for the ovens is between the new depot and the river. Forty new ovens are to be put up as soon as the grounds are laid out, and the season permits. A large number of additional ovens will be added in course of time. The coke works at Saxton will give employment to a considerable number of men. We have not been able to learn the names of the parties who are at the head of this enterprise but understand that President McKnight of the Broad Top road is one of them. Success to the coke works at Saxton!

President McKnight and Engineer Fulton have together subscribed $25,000 towards the erection of coke works at Saxton, and the coal operators on Broad Top are to furnish the other $25,000, so as to enable the company to start with a capital of $50,000. The success of the enterprise is thus assured.

Our store-room is, by far, the largest in town, and we intend keeping a fine stock of goods always on hand. Call and see us before buying elsewhere.

TOWNSHIP AUDITORS.—The act of April 24th, 1874, makes it the duty of the auditors of the several townships and boroughs to meet annually on the first Monday of June, and settle the accounts of the supervisors, road commissioners school, borough and township treasurers. These settlements must be published by printed handbills, posted in at least five public places in the borough or townships, within ten days after settlement. The auditor must also file copies of of the same with the township clerk and also with the clerk of the court of quarter sessions. Neglect or refusal to discharge these duties subject the auditors to a penalty of $20.

Since we have engaged in business our sales have exceeded our expectations. We can only account for it from the fact that we sell VERY LOW, and deal fairly with all. We request our friends to call and judge for themselves.

COURT PROCEEDINGS—SECOND WEEK, APRIL TERM, 1875.—Mary Decker vs. Huntingdon & Broad Top Railroad Company. This very important railroad suit was commenced on Friday morning of the first week of the term. The Court convened, pursuant to adjournment, on Monday morning of the second week, at 9 o'clock, and, after hearing the motions and petitions, took up the above case at the point at which it was left at the adjournment on Saturday. Many of our readers are already familiar with the circumstances of the horrible railroad accident which happened on the defendant's railroad, at Piper's Run, November 1, 1872, in which plaintiff's husband and four other persons, employees of the road, were killed. The plaintiff sued to recover damages sustained in the loss of her husband, A. P. Decker, of this borough, who was at that time employed by the Company as an engineer on the road. On the day of the accident, owing to the blowing up of an engine, Mr. Decker was placed in charge of the Cumberland Coal Train from Huntingdon to Mt. Dallas. This train ran by the schedule had the right of way, and was on time, too, when it reached Piper's Run; but it was there met by the Local Freight, a train running no by schedule, but by orders received by telegraph; and its conductor, Jacob Bowser, had received orders on his return trip from Mount Dallas that the other train was coming and to run accordingly. This order required him to "switch off" his train to allow the other to pass him, but for some unexplained cause he neglected to obey orders, and running his train at full speed met the other train at a curve in the road, at Piper's Run, where the two trains were visible to each other for but a few seconds. The result was the collision in which A. P. Decker and four others were killed. The Court, in their charge, instructed the jury that Decker was, at the time of the collision, just where his duty required him to be, and, therefore, that the accident was attributable to Bowser's mistake or recklessness. If he was an ordinarily careful man, and mistook his orders, the plaintiff could not recover; if he was reckless or intoxicated, was his recklessness or intoxication occasional or habitual? and if habitual, were his habits known to the Railroad Company or their representatives? and if known, did they persist in keeping him in their employ? were questions for the jury to consider, as was also the question whether Decker knew Bowser to be habitually intemperate or reckless, and, with this knowledge, continued to expose himself to the consequences, or, in other words, did the evidence show contributary negligence on the part of Decker. The defendants also undertook to show that the rules under which they employed their men exempted the Company from liability. The jury were instructed, as to this, to inquire whether Decker knew of these rules and consented to them. The jury retired at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning, and in the afternoon returned with a verdict for plaintiff for $5,000. Speer & McMurtrie for plaintiff and Brown & Bailey for defendants. The defendants moved the Court for a new trial, but the Court refused to entertain the motion at all.

Wm. Keener's Exr's vs. Mary Walker, Oliver Tubman and Wm. S. Shue. Summons in Debt, settled by paper filed.

Daniel Stouffer vs. Henry Bratton was an appeal from the judgment of Samuel Ralston, esq. Settled by defendant confessing judgment to plaintiff for $80.

Samuel Myton vs. E. J. Livingston, constable of Barree township. The defendant levied and sold some cattle which plaintiff claimed. Settled by defendant confessing judgment for $55.

The cases of A. B. Shenefelt vs. N. R. Shenefelt, J. M. Green's use vs. E. A. Green & Co., Cyrus Jeffries vs. John Dougherty et al, Borough of Huntingdon vs. D. Caldwell et al, Martin Walker vs. B. F. Wallace, M. Walls vs. Penn'a. Canal Company, E. H. Green vs. Etnier & Foust for use, M. A. Simes' use vs. George Withington et al, and Samuel Haliday vs. George Simes' Exr's., were all continued.

Robert C. Galbraith vs. A. P. Wilson's Adm'r. Summons in Assumsit. This suit was brought by plaintiff to recover for services and supplies rendered and furnished to Gen. A. P. Wilson, during his lifetime, and during and after the period of the lead ore excitement in Sinking Valley, where plaintiff resides. The services by plaintiff consisted in aid rendered to General Wilson in the buying and selling of land in Sinking Valley in 1862–63, which lands were then supposed to contain valuable ore deposits and were bought up by companies who expected to develop and work the lead or zinc mines; and in one or more of these companies General Wilson was alleged to have a fifth interest in the profits. The jury returned on Wednesday evening with a verdict for plaintiff for $640.10, which was about two-thirds of the amount claimed by plaintiff. Speer & McMurtrie for plaintiff and Petriken & McNeil for defendant.

On Wednesday the following sentences were pronounced in the criminal cases, viz:

Thomas Long, who admitted having sold liquor, in this borough, without a license, was instructed to hand over $85, in the shape of a fine, and also to settle the costs of prosecution, all of which he did.

Martin Geist, convicted last week of the larceny of cattle, was sentenced to pay a fine of $200,00 the costs of prosecution, and to serve a term of two years in the Western Penitentiary.

Franklin Fieldy, who broke into the store of H. C. Summers & Co., in this place, with intent to steal, according to the verdict, was sentenced to pay $10 fine and costs, and also to serve two years in the Western Penitentiary.

Daniel Noel, convicted of malicious mischief, was fined $1 and costs, and sentenced to sixty days in Fort Henderson.

On Wednesday evening the Court adjourned, to meet again on the third Monday of June next for the purpose of holding an Argument Court.

NOW IS THE TIME TO START NEW IMPROVEMENTS!—"Why don't you urge up factories and other improvements now, since Spring is here?" said a merchant to us the other day. To which we now answer that for the last four years we have done everything that we could to advance the interests of the town and county. We believe that much of the increase of population is owing to the puffing and blowing which we and others, connected with the newspaper press, did. In the meantime, we spent our money and labor to build up an office and employ men capable of meeting the wants of the community, but no sooner is a source offered that can do work for less money, than we can, because our paper costs more and we must pay more for skilled labor, than the men whose interests we have been laboring, so long and ardently to advance, give us the cold shoulder. We have been worth thousands to them, but the moment they can save a few dimes by patronizing a source that has done nothing for their interests, though it should cripple or ruin those who have risked every thing for their benefit, they desert them and give them the go-by. This may be gratitude, but it belongs to that class which is more in vogue among heathen peoples than Christians. Yes, when you want the interests of the town advanced, you believe we have the medium through which it can be done, but when you want a little advertising or job work, you can patronize those whom, from necessity, make war upon our prices. We are in favor of improvements of all kinds for your benefit and the benefit of the community, but we would like a fair reciprocation.

REPORT OF THE LADIES' RELIEF SOCIETY.—As the meetings of the Ladies' Relief Society, of Huntingdon, have closed for the present season, it may be gratifying and interesting to those who have assisted the Society by their charity to know how the money has been expended and what want and suffering have been relieved thereby. We would say to our donors, that they have in reality fed the hungry and clothed the naked through the long, cold winter which has just passed, and He who has said, "The poor ye have always with you" will send His own reward into each charitable bosom. As far as the Society knows, there is comparatively little need of assistance, and thanking our citizens again for their gifts, and the Fire Company for the use of their room, we offer our report, which we hope will give satisfaction:

A VERY SUDDEN DEATH.—On Tuesday afternoon, of last week, a very large man, with a Pennsylvania German accentuation, came into our office and stated that he wished to subscribe for the JOURNAL. After paying in advance for it, he stated that he was formerly a resident of Snyder county, but lately located in Henderson township, this county. A short conversation, in Pennsylvania German, was carried on between him and the editor of this paper, in regard to business prospects, politics, &c. The reader can imagine our surprise, on Friday last, on hearing that Mr. Solomon Romig, (the gentleman alluded to) was dead! and that he had died on Wednesday evening of last week.

It appears Mr. Romig had gone to the woods, with his sons, to superintend the loading of some wood, and on his way home, it is supposed, he had an attack of apoplexy. He was not found until about nine o'clock in the evening and when discovered was stone dead! He was an ardent Republican and an excellent citizen. He leaves a large family, if we are correctly informed, to mourn his loss. May he rest in peace!

SINCE Africa has opened up the Central Dry Goods Store it is the universal wonder how he can afford to sell goods so cheap. His store is crowded daily, and customers go away surprised at the extremely low prices of his goods. It is a mystery to know how he sells so cheap.

We respectfully announce to all who need anything usually kept in a first-class Hardware Store, that they can be accommodated, for LESS money than anywhere else in the county, at STEWART & FLENNER'S, BROAD TOP ITEMS.—Richard Langdon, esq., who is running the Cumberland mines, near Coalmont, has not stopped for the late strike on Broad Top. He was able to get a few miners who had spunk enough to keep at work, regardless of the epithets heaped upon them, and now he has over twenty men digging coal, with a prospect of more, who are going in every day. Improvements are being made at this mine, which will make it one of the best on Shoup's Run Branch.

The Broad Top Coal and Iron Company, at Coalmont, is also pushing its operations. A coal vein has already been struck, but not on the level necessary to operate successfully.—The Company will probably prosecute its work till success crowns its efforts. There is no doubt but that a good coal bed lies hidden in the mountains. It requires a little more engineering and prospecting to develop the workable coal.

John Fulton, esq., of Saxton, is about leaving for Johnstown, to occupy a more lucrative position. B.

PERSONAL.—We clip the following items from the National Republican, of Washington, D. C., under date of April 20:

On motion of Mr. Attorney General Williams, John S. Blair, esq., of Huntingdon, Pa., was admitted to practice as an attorney and counselor of this court.

No. 8. (original.) Ex parte the United States petitioners. The petition for an alternative writ of mandamus on the Court of Claims in this cause was argued by Mr. John S. Blair in support of the same. Writ granted, returnable on Friday next, the 23d instant.

HUNTINGDON PRESBYTERY.—The Presbytery of Huntingdon held its stated Spring meeting in the Presbyterian Church, at Perrysville, Juniata county, last week. It was opened on Tuesday morning by a very able sermon by the retiring Moderator, Rev. Joseph H. Mathers, of Belt's Mills. The Presbytery was then constituted with prayer, after which the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Rev. A. H. Parker, Moderator; Rev. D. W. Moore, Recording Clerk, and Rev. N. H. Miller, Reading Clerk.

The Mifflintown and Lost Creek congregation asked that the church of Mifflintown be erected into a separate organization, which was granted.—Rev. T. J. Sherrard then presented a request for a dissolution of his pastoral relation with the above congregation, which being concurred in by the congregation, was granted.

Mr. W. C. Alexander, a member of the Little Valley church, and a student at Princeton Seminary, was licensed to preach the Gospel, and Mr. G. S. Hackett, a member of the Second church of Altoona, was received under the care of the Presbytery as a candidate for the Gospel ministry.

Rev. George W. Zahnizer, of Huntingdon, and Rev. R. M. Wallace, of the First Presbyterian Church of Altoona, presented requests for a dissolution of the pastoral relationship existing between them and their churches, which churches were cited to send representatives to the June meeting of Presbytery and give reasons, if any, why their requests should not be granted.

Rev. S. T. Wilson, D. D., of Birmingham; Rev. Jas. Boal, of Saxton, and Dr. G. M. Graham and R. R. Hamilton, Elders, were elected to the General Assembly which meets at Cleveland, Ohio, in May.

The overture sent down from the General Assembly with reference to the so called "term-eldership" was announced by the Presbytery in the negative, only a small minority of ten ministers voting in the affirmative. The overture reads as follows:

"VIII. If any particular church by a vote of members in full communion, shall prefer to elect ruling elders for a limited time in the exercise of their functions, this may be done; provided the full time be not less than three years, and the session be made to consist of three classes, one of which only shall be elected every year; and provided that elders once ordained shall not be divested of the office when they are not re-elected, but shall be entitled to represent that particular church in the higher judicatories, when appointed by the session of the Presbytery."

If this overture is approved by a majority of the Presbyteries it will be added to the thirteenth chapter of the Form of Government, and as far as heard from the Presbyteries answering this overture in the affirmative are greatly in the majority.

The statistical reports from the various churches within the Presbytery, with few exceptions, were far more encouraging than usual. There was reported from the entire Presbytery an aggregate addition of nine hundred and sixty members on profession of faith.

Quite a number of congregations reported very blessed revivals of religion. The churches of Alexandria, Reedsville, Sinking Valley and Petersburg reported each over fifty additions to their membership on profession. The church of McVeytown reported eighty-three additions and the Second church of Altoona reported one hundred and thirteen additions on profession.

"Horse-men," and others who pretend to know, say that the following directions had better be observed in using Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders: Give a horse a tablespoonful every night for a week; the same every other night for 4 or 6 nights; the same for a milch cow, and twice as much for an ox. The addition of a little fine salt will be an advantage.

We have heard recently of several severe cases of spinal diseases cured by Johnson's Anodyne Liniment; one case of a man forty-five years old, who had not done a day's work for four years. VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

LETTER FROM CLAY TOWNSHIP.

CLAY TOWNSHIP, April 22, 1875.

MR. EDITOR—Dear Sir: As I seldom trouble you, I hope you will excuse me for once.

I learn from the last Globe that that fellow, Guss, who has set up such a howl about the amount of costs he entailed, by his licentiousness, upon the State, has not only the impudence and "Brazen Effrontery" to ask the Legislature to make him an appropriation as a premium for acting the beast, but now asks the Republicans of Huntingdon county to guarantee him damages as a condition precedent to his coming back into the party! Great heavens! Truly we have fallen upon strange times! I think if the Legislature had responded to his request by appropriating about ten feet of rope and quietly had him suspended by it, it would have been a becoming and appropriate reward for his conduct, and the Republican party would not now be disgraced by having a creature of this kind hanging around on the ragged edges.

Any other man in the county, in his situation, would have sneaked off, sheep dog like, many a day ago, and thanked his stars for the chance, instead of hanging around here disgracing the county with his smut machine.—No other county in the United States would have tolerated one-half of the outrageous malignity that our forbearing people have suffered at his hands. A Vigilance Committee would have done the little business anywhere else for him. This, after all, is the only remedy where the law is not equal to the emergency. It would have been well for the morals and honor of Huntingdon county if this species of criminal equity had been brought into requisition twenty months ago. Please think of it. He has been constantly, for two years, slandering and abusing the best men in the community—men whose word has ever been better than his oath, and we have the first time to hear him utter a single word of censure upon any of the meanest acts known to our statute books. He is the moral vulture that feeds upon the pure and the good and quietly passes the vile and wicked by. And this is the man we must agree to recognize before we can have union and harmony in the party! Pshaw! I will retire into a minority as long as the Israelites tarried in the wilderness, before I will consent to do anything of the kind. I am extremely anxious for a union with the Republicans who have been misled by this creature but, thank you, on no such conditions! I have too much manliness for that. And I do not anticipate that the rank and file of them expect us to comply with any thing of the kind. To those we would say:—You went out and left the door open; it has not been closed; you have only to come back.

Yours, RAILROADER.

MR. EDITOR:—With many others of the rank and file of the Republican party of Huntingdon county, I regret that no measures were adopted at the recent meetings of the County Committees to harmonize and unite the whole party. In view of the approaching contests of 1875–6, we cannot afford to waste our political strength in local and personal quarrels. Do we want to see Huntingdon county and all the officers in it pass into the hands of the Democratic party next fall? If so, then let us keep up this strife in the Republican ranks. Do we want to regain our ancient prestige, and redeem and retain our character as a Republican county? Then let us make an honest effort to unite all members

The Old Barn.

BY LOUISE BILLINGS SPALDING.

A misty twilight filled the country barn,
And gathered in gray shadows o'er the mows;
While thread-like sunbeams pierced each gaping seam,
And lit the manger of the feeding cows.

What childish games we played among the hay,
Of hide-and-seek behind the sheaves of grain;
With bursts of childish laughter, free and light,
As we can never hope to laugh again.

O, how the echo of our shouts would ring
From roof to stable through the joyous day!
The cows would cease their feeding and look up,
For wonder at our revelry, so gay.

We'd play mad games with pitchfork and with rake,
Fright'ning the brood-hen cackling from her nest;
We'd bowl with pumpkins 'cross the threshing floor
Till evening trailed her sable in the west.

No spot so wondrous as the old gray barn.
Where Don, the farmhouse, stood, and peaceful cows
Chewed solemnly their cuds, stanchioned secure—
Beneath the shadow of the dusky mows.

The swallow left her nest beneath the eaves
And twittered o'er us while we romped at play;
As though she, too, partook of our glad games,
And shared the joy that made our laugh so gay.

But, deep within the calm eyes of the cows,
When past the manger in our play we trod,
Something within their sinless depths appalled,
And made us think of mystery, and God.

Something we could not solve, nor comprehend,
Which hushed our laughter and our boisterous play;
Till solemn awe possessed our little souls,
And, one by one, we sighed and crept away.

O, for one blessed hour of pure joy
Lived in the old gray barn beneath the hill!
O, for a single laugh like that of old,
Whose deathless echo never will be still!

The breath of lambs is not more chaste or pure
Than such loved memories, wafted amid our youth;
They come like doves from consecrated bowers,
Loved messengers of innocence and truth.

Manure for Potatoes.

The farmers do not manure land very much for potatoes, yet perhaps some of them who need it, may get a hint or two from the following, by Joseph Harris, in the Agriculturist: "We should get manure ready for potatoes this winter. I have commenced my pile already, and it is fermenting nicely, and will keep on fermenting all winter. But it is not yet too late to start a heap. All there is about it is simply to wheel the manure into a heap in some central position, and every day, or as often, as the stables and yard are cleaned out, wheel the manure to the heap and spread it on top, instead of scattering it over a large surface. If the manure does not ferment, it is probably because it is too poor. The droppings from the hen-house, if scattered upon the heap and covered up, will help it. When you kill pigs, save the blood and pour it on the heap.—Any animal matter will be good. If the head is dry and cold, the hot water, hair, etc., you have left after scalding the pigs can be poured on the heap to advantage. In any case the horse stable is separated from the rest of the building. We throw the horse litter into an empty stall, where it will keep dry. Every week or so we put this horse litter in a cart and draw it to the pigpens. Here it stays until it gets saturated with the rich liquor from the pigs, and is then wheeled to the heap.—There is no difficulty about getting such manure to ferment. It will be in prime condition for potatoes in the spring.

FEEDING FOR PROFIT.—The feeding of a pig through winter keeps him alive. There is no growth or very little. The feed is therefore, no better than wasted, and it cannot pay to feed a pig over winter to make an additional amount of pork. A March pig that will weigh 200 to 250 pounds at nine months old, is the most profitable one that can be fed. And a well bred pig can be made to weigh this by constant good feeding. One of our farmers says he has fed pigs to this weight and kept their mates over to the next year when the latter made 500 pounds or less. If nine months feed of a young pig makes 200 pounds of pork it cannot pay to feed a full grown pig, that needs twice the food, twelve months to make the same quantity.—Exchange.

MANURE FOR THE GARDEN.—J. M. Ryan, Knox county, asks for best fertilizers for vegetable garden. Well rotted stable manure, or better yet, compost, is perhaps the best, all things considered. Of commercial fertilizers, guano, bone dust, superphosphates, are all good. Ashes are excellent and so is lime. For kitchen garden, a compost heap, well handled, is indispensible. This should be commenced in the fall, and frequently turned, with additions of ashes, lime, poultry manure, muck, etc., whenever they can be collected. Apply at the rate of 50 to 200 tons per acre, according to soil.—Ohio Farmer.

USEFUL WORK FOR FARMERS' DAUGHTERS.—"My daughter keeps my farm accounts, sir; and she is as systematic and particular as ever my son was, who kept them before he left home. I tell you it does girls" (and he might have added boys also) "good to give them some responsibility, and set them to watching things about the farm and household. They learn, I find, economy by it, and soon discover that their old father is not, necessarily, a crabbed old curmudgeon, because he does not loosen his purse string whenever they see something they happen to fancy; for they discover the reason why the purse should not be opened." The foregoing accords exactly with our views; it will not only create economy in the minds of farmers' daughters, but will make practical bookkeepers of them, and improve their penmanship. Let all our friends try it, and we guarantee good results.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABE.

FREE FROM ALCOHOL.

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of Vinegar Bitters?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of Vinegar Bitters in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflamation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters act on all these cases in a similar manner. By purifying the Blood they remove the cause, and by resolving away the effects of the inflammation (the tubuecular deposits) the affected parts receive health, and a permanent cure is affected.

If men will enjoy good health, let them use Vinegar Bitters as a medicine, and avoid the use of alcoholic stimulants in every form.

A FEW REASONS

WHY THE

ARION PIANO

IS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS:

The ARION PIANO-FORTE has greater power than any other Piano-Forte manufactured.

It will Stand in Tune Longer, and in its mechanical construction it is more perfect, and, therefore, more durable, than any instrument constructed in the usual modern style.

The arrangement of the Agraffe, the manner of stringing, the peculiar form and arrangement of the Iron Frame

SUPERCEDES ALL OTHERS.

The use of a bar (which is a part of the Iron Frame on a line with the heavy steel stringing,) gives where most needed, and in this respect all other pianoes fail.

The construction of the WREST PLANK, into which the tuning Pins are inserted, is such that it is impossible for the pins to come loosened, or the Wrest Plank itself to split, as is too often the case in other Piano-Fortes.

The Extraordinary Evenness

throughout the scale, the excellent Singing Quality, the

LENGTH AND PURITY OF VIBRATION,

all go to prove what we claim, viz: that the

ARION PIANO-FORTE

Is the Best Instrument Manufactured.

TO THE CITIZENS OF PENNSYLVANIA.—Your attention is specially invited to the fact that the National Banks are now authorized to receive subscriptions to the capital Stock of the Centennial Board of Finance. The funds realized from thisource are to be employed in the erection of the buildings for the International Exhibition, and the expenses connected with the same. It is confidently believed that the Keystone State will be represented by the name of every citizen alive to patriotic commemoration of the one hundredth birth-day by the nation. The shares of stock are offered for $10 each, and subscribers will receive a handsome steel engraved Certificate of Stock, suitable for framing and preservation as a national memorial.

Interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum will be paid on all payments of Centennial Stock from date of payment to January 1, 1876.

CELEBRATED

GOLDEN-TONGUE PARLOR ORGAN

IS ACKNOWLEDGED BY EMINENT MUSICIANS AND DISTINGUISHED MEN OF HONOR TO BE THE LEADING INSTRUMENT NOW IN USE
—THEY SAY—

BEATTY & PLOTTS'

PARLOR ORGANS were awarded FIRST PREMIUM and DIPLOMA over Needham & Son's and J. Estey & Co's Organs at the Carbon County Fair, held at Lehighton, Pa., September, 1872.—Lehighton Weekly News, Oct. 5, 1872.

St. Clair, Pa., Dec. 6, 1872.

MESSRS. BEATTY & PLOTTS—Gents: I have received the Organ sent by your firm to me, and had it examined. It gives ample satisfaction.

JOHN SUMMY.

Mahanoy City, Pa., Oct. 16, 1872.

THE BEATTY & PLOTTS 6½ octave Golden Tongue Parlor Organ is for the best Parlor Organ we have carefully examined it, and find its tone, workmanship and durability to be the best I ever saw, and I can with pleasure recommend it to any in want of a first-class parlor organ.

PROF. C. H. UNGER.

New Bethlehem, Pa., Nov. 23, 1872.

MESSRS. BEATTY & PLOTTS—Gents: Having had one of your Golden Tongue Parlor Organs, for six months past, I thought before recommending it, to give it a long season trial, and am happy to testify that it surpassed all that has been said or advertised about it. I have had Professors of music, and celebrated organists come and try it, and one and all say that it is one of the sweetest and best toned instruments in the market. It has taken the shine out of all others around here. I am perfectly satisfied with it. You may publish this if you see fit, as my name can be tried by any one wishing to do so. Yours truly,

A. S. R. RICHARDS,
Late of the Tennessee Courier, now of New Bethlehem, Pa.
